

Lt. Col. Stephen Thompson, 90th Services Squadron commander, pins an honorary services badge on Col. Evan Hoapili, 90th Space Wing commander, during a 90 SVS commander's call May 17.

Photo by Lorri Welsh

90 SVS honors Col. Hoops

Services' farewell tribute to wing king

Photo by Lorri Welsh

Col. Evan Hoapili, 90th Space Wing commander, dons the Mighty Ninety chef's uniform while serving Warren Airmen a Thanksgiving holiday meal at Chadwell Dining Facility, November 2004 with the help of his wife, Amanda.

2005 AIR FORCE SPACE COMMAND SERVICES PROGRAMS AWARDS

These programs, together with the individuals involved in their success, exemplify the highest standards of professionalism and dedication. Warren won eight awards and will move on to compete in Air Force-level competition. The 90th Service Squadron thanks Col. Evan Hoapili for his continued support of services programs.

- Child Development Program of the Year
- Family Child Care Program of the Year
- Outdoor Recreation Program of the Year
- Fitness and Sports Program of the Year
- Youth Program of the Year
- Consolidated/collocated Club of the Year
- Marketing Program of the Year
- Training Program of the Year

Courtesy photo

Col. Evan Hoapili, 90th Space Wing commander, is recognized in May by Arthur Myers, director of Air Force Services, and Lt. Col. Stephen Thompson, 90th Services Squadron commander, for being an outstanding advocate for services during the National Restaurant Association Convention and John L. Hennessy Awards banquet held in Chicago.